

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) - Attendance and Course Monitoring

1. Monitoring Attendance

Question no.	FAQs on Course Attendance and course progress	Actions taken Australian Institute of Entrepreneurship(AIE)	What students are required to do?
Q 1	Will my attendance be recorded daily on an hourly basis?	Yes, student attendance will be recorded daily. The Administration Officer will maintain and record course attendance every week on the Attendance tool and submit it to the Administration Manager. Attendance reports will be generated and analysed weekly and students who are not attending classes will be identified.	You are required to attend your classes regularly every day and maintain satisfactory attendance as per your attendance and course progress requirements.
Q 2	Who will be responsible for analysing and monitoring my attendance?	AIE's administration department will summarise and monitor attendance records at the end of each week. Administration Manager and/or administration department will analyse the weekly attendance tool and will determine the satisfactory and unsatisfactory attendance of students every week.	You are required to attend your classes regularly every day and maintain satisfactory attendance as per your course progress requirements.
Q 3	What is satisfactory attendance? What is the percentage of attendance that I need to maintain?	Students are required to maintain a minimum of 80% of attendance to maintain satisfactory attendance.	You are required to attend all the classes.
Q 4	What is Unsatisfactory attendance?	AIE will regularly monitor attendance and send warning letters to the students. If a student's attendance is at the risk of falling below 80% or has fallen below 80% or the student has been absent for more than 5 consecutive days without approval. This will mean that attendance is unsatisfactory.	You must attend at least 80 per cent of the scheduled course contact hours for each course in which you are enrolled.

Q 5	Will I receive warning letters based on low attendance requirements?	Yes, AIE's Student Administration will send low attendance warning letters to students because low attendance will lead to unsatisfactory course progress which will further lead to students being reported to the Department of Home Affairs via PRISMS.	If you have received a low attendance warning letter, you should contact the student administration or Administration Manager immediately and discuss the reasons for low attendance and the need for any support required. You are required to ensure that you regularly attend your classes and maintain satisfactory course progress so that you are not reported to DHA, and you complete your course within the timeframe as specified in your CoE.
Q 6	Will I be reported to DHA based on low attendance?	No, AIE will not report on students based on unsatisfactory attendance. However, Low attendance might lead to unsatisfactory course progress which will further lead to you being reported to the Department of Home Affairs via PRISMS.	You are required to maintain satisfactory attendance to maintain satisfactory course progress requirements.
Q 7	What should I do after receiving a low attendance letter?	AIE's student administration will contact you. Administration Manager or representative will meet you and discuss intervention strategies which can be implemented to assist you to maintain satisfactory attendance and achieve satisfactory course progress.	You are required to contact the authorised person in Student Administration or Administration Manager within 5 days of receiving the letter or as soon as possible. You must discuss the reasons for your absence, what were the circumstances and if you require any intervention strategy.
Q 8	Do I need to apply for RPL based on low attendance?	Yes, according to the attendance requirements of ASQA, if an overseas student is not attending scheduled classes, but is making satisfactory progress in their course, then the course duration set may not be suitable for that student—because they must already have the skills, knowledge, and experience to progress in their course without receiving structured training. In this case, AIE may invite student to apply for RPL and may reduce the duration of the course to the minimum duration required given the student's existing skills and knowledge, while maintaining a	You are required to meet the concerned person* in student administration. *Ask at reception

2. Monitoring Course Progress

Question no.	FAQs on Course Progress	Actions taken by AIE	What students are required to do?
Q 1	What is satisfactory course progress?	Satisfactory course progress implies that a student is successful in completing or demonstrating competency in at least 50% of the units in any study period to achieve a minimum competency level.	You are required to maintain satisfactory course progress i.e., be successful in demonstrating competency in at least 50 % of the units in any study period of the studies.
Q 2	What is Unsatisfactory course progress?	Unsatisfactory progress is defined as not successfully completing or demonstrating competency in at least 50% of the units in any study period.	You are required to attend all the classes so that you are aware of the teachings and assessments which will help you to maintain satisfactory course progress.
Q 3	What is a study period?	Study period is one term of the course which may vary from 10 to 15 weeks each depending upon the course in which the student is enrolled. Please refer to Student's Handbook for more details available on the AIE's website https://www.aiemel.edu.au
Q 4	How and when will the course progress be monitored?	Course progress will be monitored based on the assessments and your results in these assessments will determine satisfactory course progress.	You are required to attend all your classes regularly so that you can maintain satisfactory course progress.
Q 5	Who will be responsible for analysing and monitoring my course progress?	AIE's administration staff and Administration Manager will analyse and monitor your course progress. Administration Manager will consult with the administration staff and determine the satisfactory and unsatisfactory course progress of students for every study period.	You are required to attend your classes regularly every day so that you can maintain satisfactory course progress.
